Hindu Dharma is a universal tradition of truth and Self-realization. It is important that its teachings are once more spread to all humanity, particularly in this time of global crisis.

This means that all dharmacharyas should offer their teachings to all sincere and qualified individuals regardless of their place or status of birth. All Hindu temples should be open to anyone who wishes to worship in them.

Such an action will not only help revive Hindu Dharma but help spiritually awaken the entire planet. Navya Shastra is doing an important work in this respect and deserves the help of all Hindus. I fully support their efforts and am inspired by their dedication.
